Considered to be one of the best and most complex fighting games ever created, Haymaker is about going up the ranks of a underground boxing league.

Haymaker follows a story where young Haymaker, a local boy from the big city, starts fighting. As he progresses and develops as a fighter, he becomes the ultimate champion and is finally rewarded. Haymaker is known for its unique gameplay and the amazing visuals. About Me Tuesday, November 3, 2011 BELLA & JACOB

Thanks to everyone that has emailed me asking the name of Jacob. Well, I've gotten some predictions and I'm going to tell you the truth: Jacob is the name of a boy that Bella and Edward met while on a school field trip to the Arbonne in Forks. Bella is an intern there and Jacob is a teenager in high school. Yes, I'm going to name the baby after Edward's character from New Moon. It's a tribute to him, and I think it is fitting. When I thought about giving the baby a name, I was looking for something that sounded like Edward, and a lot of people suggested Jacob. It seemed fitting because Jacob is the kid who was taught about the Cullens by his mom's 'witch' side in New Moon. This baby is going to be the second newborn to be named after Bella's brother. The first one was named Charlie. Charlie, of course, is Bella's brother from Twilight. I'm kind of going out on a limb to name this baby Jacob, but I think the majority of you will understand what I mean. Just to be clear, I'm not naming this baby Jacob because I have a crush on his character, Edward. I have named many babies after characters and in general it has been very successful, so I think I'm okay with it. I'm sure there will be some people who will be upset with me if the name doesn't fit the baby exactly, but I'm going to go with my gut instinct and hope that they can let it go. I would love to get some ideas for the baby's middle name, but I'm not going to assume that there will be a story like that. I might have to go with Jacob, but we'll see. Sorry for the longer title and all the descriptions. I think I should explain some things a little more. I'm no expert on Names, but I do know some. I know this has been over discussed and some people

Crumbling (April-2022)

Alicia Quatermain, a well-known adventurer and adrenaline junkie, is invited by sir Gringray to a charity ball – a common social event where no surprises can happen. But who could think that the thing would go wrong, really wrong! In the midst of the party fun there appeared a ghost that seized sir Gringray's family relic called the Sword of Seven Seas and vanished in the air with the artifact as suddenly as it turned up. What was the reason for the ghost to appear? Why did it steal the Sword of Seven Seas? Is sir Gringray's family relic lost forever or can it be still regained? And the main question – shall Alicia agree to help sir Gringray to find the Sword of Seven Seas, or shall she revise her lifestyle and change her adventurer habits by turning into a glamorous lady and a habitué of elite parties? Are you really curious to know it? Then don't hesitate to follow Alicia Quatermain to the ball to be a witness of the beginning of

Worked well with RPG Maker.
Some files not found in the ZIP. So far the process has been a little tricky, but it's nearly finished now and looks really nice! My screenshots are 5.1 only, just because that's how I found it. This would go well for a certain genre of game, but I'm not sure if it would work with the right kind of RPG. Definitely more for small dialogue based games, not sure about RPG.

What's new in Crumbling:

Walls A frustrated Belarus resident used Facebook to ask the government to fix a neglected structure. MABPA, — BIRMINGHAM — The 64-year-old apartment building stands crooked, broken, abandoned, dark and dreary. Windows are shuttered or boarded up with packing tape or painted or coated with graffiti. Wooden balconies sag. The outside paint is cracking. The original brick facade is flaking. Inside, the floors are pockmarked, some areas chewed up with concrete, the pipes rusted. But this is home to Ileksandra, a family of five, and when the seasons permit, they coax trees out of the construction's sagging limbs to help shade them. The trees cast purple shadows on the parched grass nearby. For much of the last decade, these are the type of conditions facing the residents of Birmingham's long-neglected apartment community of Brightwood Village. Some in the neighborhood say the blight in the neighborhood represents a breakdown of the country itself. The apartment buildings dating back to the early 1950s in the 5300 block of Acrewood Drive, erected during a massive wave of public housing, most of which now stand abandoned, are crumbling. Out of 1,603 units in the original building, 600 remain occupied. The landlord in 2002 paid to tear down five of the buildings without the residents' knowledge or consent. About 130 more cracked walls remain. The apartment buildings are owned by Tractor Supply Company. Individual state, local and federal building codes set design and construction standards that can vary in this area of Bessemer, a suburb of Birmingham. But basic standards — the pitch of roofs and the spacing of rebar — remain. Apartments in Brightwood Village were built with the intent to last about 55 years; most in the neighborhood are now far beyond that. Codes set minimum yard space. But, because of gyratory sewer systems that brought wastewater to apartments on this property decades ago, the yards were allowed to shrink and deflate. Little extra space was created by modular piping, which allows connections to build out sewer lines from apartment units into a common trench that discharges into a lagoon on the property's western side. 'Here in Brightwood, if you need to be away from your home, you're a hell of a long way away.' David Douglas, resident and president of the
