Remember that our Universe belongs to the Earth. We are from the Earth. We are living on the Earth and that's why we cannot travel to other galaxies. We have these stars which are not ours. They belong to another planet, a planet which we can not go to. At the same time, we must develop our skills to get along with the rest of the Universe. We must be patient and work hard to find a balance. On Earth, we often think that we are the only one in the Universe. Other planets are so far away from us. But we know that this is not true. There are other planets too. On some planets, we can not see anything. Do you know what is a Black Hole? No, no? OK, let's go to another planet. A galaxy far away from the Earth. Do you know how far? Far, very far. How much? The entire Universe. Exactly. So, we are living in the Universe of the Earth. There is a strange planet somewhere in the Earth's Universe. It is at this planet that you are now. This planet is Earth. Earth is one of the 7 galaxies of the Universe. Earth is from the Solar System. The Solar System consists of the Moon, the Sun and the Earth. The Earth is like an asteroid from the Solar System. The Solar System is actually the Universe. Everything in the Universe is made of elements. On Earth, you have the same elements as in the Earth's galaxies. No, I am not going to tell you that this planet is our own Universe. This is just the Earth's Universe. On Earth, you are just an indivisible element of the earth's Universe. Just like you are indivisible on the Earth. Not the stars? Stars belong to the Solar System. Stars have their own galaxies, their own Universe. Stars are also indivisible elements of their Universe. The whole Universe is interdependent. You are an indivisible element of the Earth's Universe. The Earth belongs to the Solar System. The Solar System belongs to the Milky Way. The Milky Way belongs to the Universe. The Universe contains all the Stars. All the Stars belongs to the Black Hole. The Black Hole is the end of the Universe. The end of the Universe is the start of the Universe.

Effect of a lead-in period on the results of the Mini-Mental State Examination and the International Alzheimer's Disease Assessment Scale in mild cognitive impairment. To assess the effects of a lead-in period on the results of a cognitive screening test, such as the Mini-Mental State Examination (MMSE), which is commonly used to detect cognitive dysfunction in elderly individuals. Patients suspected of having cognitive dysfunction were enrolled in the study after a lead-in period of 2 weeks. All patients underwent baseline testing. Patients were re-tested after a 12-week lead-in period. The results of a MMSE and an International Alzheimer's Disease Assessment Scale (IAADAS) were compared between the baseline and the lead-in testing periods. We evaluated 174 subjects. The mean age was 73.5 years, and the mean lead-in period was 12.5 weeks. In the lead-in period, one patient had a drop in MMSE score that was greater than 2 points. The number of patients with an MMSE score of less than 25 increased from 13.8% at baseline to 18.6% at lead-in period (P = 0.008). The IADAS total score, cognitive item, and functional item scores did not show any significant difference between the baseline and the lead-in period. The 12-week lead-in period did not alter the results of the MMSE and the IADAS in patients suspected of having cognitive dysfunction. These findings suggest that using a lead-in period of at least 2 weeks before cognitive evaluation is crucial to minimize the risk of a false negative diagnosis, particularly for mild cognitive impairment.
