I am currently trying to create a small script which gets the cell text if the cell is bold. For this I made a function which returns a boolean depending on whether or not the cell text is bold. Here is the code: function isTextBold(elem) { var text = $(elem).text(); return text!= 'abc' && text!= 'def'; } After this I need a switch statement to check in which cell of a table I am standing and then just return the text of the respective cell if it is bold or not. All my tries didn't work. switch(id) { case 1: if(isTextBold(e.cell("subject"))) {

A tight-knit Northern Ireland family from Inishowen have been left devastated after their home was destroyed by a suspected arson attack in front of their eyes. Destructive Storm Desmond has pummelled the area for the past week with heavy rainfall. One resident said that he saw a man running from the scene wearing a hooded jumper and breathing heavily. An investigation is now being carried out to establish the cause of the blaze. The family, who asked for their details not to be published, have lived on the road for almost 50 years. The buildings that surround the area are under the control of the local housing association and are designed to withstand storms. The blaze caused about £70,000 worth of damage and the family said that they will now have to find a new home. "This is just appalling, it's heartbreaking for the family and I think it's heartless to do something like this," one local told the Belfast Telegraph. Expand Close
