Two well-known folks who teach Photoshop successfully are Scott Kelby and Kevin Hulslander. The former publishes _The Photoshop Training DVD Workbook_ series, which focuses on business and editorial photography. The latter has written a series of books that teach Photoshop as well. The most widely used of the Photoshop books are _Photoshop For Dummies_ by Nancy Conner and _Photoshop Elements For Dummies_ by Karen Perdue and Lonette Mason. ## Working with Layers Each layer in Photoshop is a canvas for drawings. It is the canvas that is used to draw each image in the document. The concept of layers is a fundamental tool for post-production work in Photoshop. You can group layers together, organize them, and combine, sort, or delete them. Layers can be used to change an image's size, and they can save you a lot of time when you're manipulating an image.

Q: What is a font resource for Java? I'm trying to write an app for Android 2.1 that searches for certain phrases in a text file. I downloaded a few open source Java programs with a title "Font Resouce" that I downloaded from the Internet. For example, "JTS Resource Manager" is what I downloaded and "Anythings (Java Text Provider for Font Resources)". Do you have any idea what that is for? Thanks in advance for the help. A: The program you are talking about should help you. It's called Java Text Provider for Font Resources: It seems to be a Java library that you can compile into a.jar file that is loaded by an application Q: Redirect subdomain to different.php file I have two URLs: a/b.example.com and c/d.example.com, where a and c are the standard dns server records. I only want to redirect c/d.example.com to a separate.php file, namely, b.php. My proposed c/d.example.com to b.php rule is as follows: RewriteEngine on RewriteCond %{HTTP_HOST} ^c\.example\.com$ RewriteRule ^(.)$ [R=301,L] ...but I am wondering what the ^(.)$ means. The documentation states "This pattern will be matched against the path of the incoming URL." but can someone explain, in more detail, what that is? When I understand the meaning of ^ and $, and that ^(.*)$ is for patterns, I should be able to apply some regex on them and understand what it means. Can someone give me a hand? A: $1 is the second argument of the rewritten string ^ means the string starts with this part Here it just means that c/.example.com matches the rule, nothing more. Then you need the part which matches with c/.example.com/ (the first "/" being an url and the second "/" being the second argument of which is the first variable in the rewrite rule) And

Tip If you need to select pixels in an image that are very similar to the mouse cursor, click and hold the mouse button on a section of the image and move the cursor over different pixels until you find the one you want. You can then click on a single pixel that you have selected, and the Magic Wand will select that pixel. To select pixels based on their relative similarity to the cursor, follow these steps: 1. Select the Magic Wand tool and click and hold down on an area of the image you want to select. The Magic Wand dialog box appears, as shown in Figure 14-3. You can use this dialog box to adjust the parameters that are most important to you. The box on the left side of the dialog box has the settings that control the most important settings for the tool
