Yeah rly, if ur using any high level plugins, just remember that theres no way of evaluating whats good,or bad until u finish your sound. When you know how to set up your sound so it sounds good, you need to realise what it is and how to make it sound better. For eg, i know that if my sound is too dry or lacking, i usually need to infuse more plugins like eq's,eq2's, reverb, delays etc. This doesn't mean that one is better than the other, just that they're not always there for u to use. I'm not here to tell u everything but plz read something about audio and gain some knowledge. A bit of advice, if the spl trans transient designer cracks sounds good to u, try this 9 tweak, eq1's, cb's, delays etc. Even the spl designer seems to be missing some bass stuff which is needed for a more original sound. :D So if u just edit ur sound with no tweaks or plugins used, only able to use the bare minimum for it to sound natural, ur not gonna get the best of anything. Never mind the fact that i have the same experience with my own sound. :D

Q: MySQL: How to sort results by string in field I have a table of contacts with multiple phone numbers. Each contact has a name and a phone number. I want to be able to sort the results alphabetically by the phone number. If I do a query like this: `SELECT * FROM contacts ORDER BY phone1` I get the following result:

name	phone1
Joe	123
Mike	111
Sam	123
Bobby	123

But I want the following result:

name	phone1
Bobby	123
Joe	123
Mike	111
Sam	123

Is there any way to do this? A: Use: `SELECT * FROM contacts ORDER BY phone1 COLLATE utf8_general_ci COLLATE docs`

Each button has a function when pressed, but does the same on all three buttons. I have created a JSON file, which has the function names that are related to each button. I would like to get the values from the JSON file and output them to each button's function (each button has its own HTML code). I have tried using an AsyncTask, and adding onDataChange. The button updates, but the text does not. I have also created a PhoneGap plugin, which works correctly on the previous button,

It's made entirely from plants and uses about 1/6 of the energy and emits about 1/20 as much carbon dioxide. Several producers from the US and Europe are taking the plunge, selling their products as ground meat in U.S. grocery stores. Protein-like products already exist - soy, hemp and pea protein are growing increasingly popular. Reasons for eating plant-based meat are clear. A plant-based diet is healthy, sustainable and kind to the environment. The new plant-based meat substitute developed by Barri giotti & Company in Union, New Jersey is made from wheat, almonds, peas, broccoli, carrots, lentils and celery. It's designed to be healthier than the same volume of animal-based meat. This plant-based substitute uses much less fat and less calories than beef. The taste is, however, much closer to that of the real thing. Barri-giotti & Company's plant-based meat
