Vector images are created using SVG, which stands for Scalable Vector Graphics, the XML-based file format used for vector images. SVG is also supported in Illustrator CS6. You need special graphics software to create SVG. The free tool of choice is Inkscape, a program that I want to make global variable value empty to use it everywhere. I don't want to make it globally. I have a model class named as Student and a Controller named as Test. Controller public ActionResult TestStudent() { var model = new Student(); var list =

`new List { model }; ViewBag.GlobalInfo = list; return View(list); } Test View @{ foreach(var student in ViewBag.GlobalInfo) { @student.Age } } How can I make this foreach function empty before run? I want to use ViewBag.GlobalInfo to fill my view from controller. A: You should probably refactor some code to store the model on the view instead of storing a list in a viewbag. In your action, just initialize a new model, populate it, and pass it as a parameter to the view: public ActionResult TestStudent() { var model = new Student(); model.Age = 42; var list = new List { model }; return View(list); } In your view, just access the Age property on the Model object and display the value. @model IList @foreach(`
