Anyone know if there is any reason why when I try to run vmware tools I get an error saying "Installer configuration is invalid" or something like that, I know that there was a official version of vmware tools 10 that is free, but that version was released a long time ago. A: Just got it solved. For someone who wants to learn about this, apparently the only problem was the fact that I was on a 32-bit version of Windows 8.1 so I just needed to install a 64-bit version which I did from the windows app store. Worked perfectly. Jacob Henriques returns to Australia and the Adelaide Oval for the first time since he made his international debut against New Zealand in 2014, when he was dismissed for a first-ball duck by Mitchell Starc. Ex-Australia No. 1 batsman Henriques says he's aiming to make a strong return and secure a spot in the squad for next year's World Cup in England. He'll be asked to fill the gap left behind by the retirement of Michael Clarke, but first comes this Test at the highest level of the game. Henriques said he knew he was playing well enough to be in the squad but is still taking it all in his stride. "When you get thrown in there, you just have to do it," Henriques said. "I think you try and have that mind-set at all times and just stay in the moment." Henriques debuted for Australia aged 17 against Sri Lanka in 2012, having been guided through the Australian junior ranks by former Test opener Matthew Hayden. Despite making his Test debut on an unseasonably hot summer's day at the MCG when he was 19 years and 11 days, Henriques would go on to make 77 appearances for Australia in four years, including scoring two centuries in the 2013-14 Ashes series. Ben Dunk, one of Australia's most respected junior cricketers, has also been promoted to the senior team and is another player who, like Henriques, is still just 22. "It's a great feeling. I knew this was the level you needed to be at to go to that level but at the same time I still had to make my case there," he said. "I was lucky to have some good role models around me like I did [Matthew Hayden] and
