In the summer of 2012, a large portion of the ice sheet at the Jibet Glacier, located in northern Greenland, started to flow. This unique event involved a nine-day surge of the ice sheet, amounting to about 3 km<sup>3</sup> of discharge. We employ three-dimensional numerical models to investigate the possible causes of this remarkable outburst using climate projections based on recent climate change scenarios (RCP2.6, RCP4.5, RCP6.0, RCP8.5) and the transient ice sheet model IceSHE. According to the projections, the area of ice sheet that can flow during the summer can increase up to 50% in the period 2020-2060 with respect to the conditions of the past 50 years. These climate projections cause a significant increase in the risk of outburst events at the Jibet Glacier. The analyses indicate that this increase in the area of flow is due to the increase in basal melting in association with the greater surface air temperature, and in particular the positive contribution of the well known "lake effect". The primary drivers of the outburst are, on the other hand, the alteration of the horizontal ice flow dynamics and the decrease of the basal drag of the ice Qasas Ul Anbiya (Salat) is one of the most important books of the Holy Qur'an. The events in Qasas ul Anbiya include the first test of Islam: the battle of Badr. Because of the Battle of Badr, Islam spread very quickly into other areas and expanded very rapidly. Islam is based on three principles. One is the belief in One God, which was the belief of Abraham, Moses, Jesus and all of the prophets. On the other hand, they had a God, but the stories of these prophets describe completely different Gods. How can we believe in these different stories as being true? And lastly, this belief in one God requires that all human beings are human beings with the same destiny, which is to return to the one God, just as the prophets were angels in heaven. The second principle is the belief in the Messengers. This idea is based on the belief in the prophets and the law of God as communicated to them.

Â This is the most important belief for Muslims. Â Finally, the third principle is the belief in the true and pure way of life. Â According to Islam, the true and pure way of life is to believe in God and His prophets and follow their true way of life. Â The holy Qur'an and the hadiths are the true and pure way of life, and those that know the holy Qur'an and the hadiths will follow this way of life. Â Islam has appeared in different forms with different names in various places in the history of mankind. Â Some of these names are taken from the prophets, and others from themselves. Â One of them is the prophet Muhammad. Â It is reported that the message of Islam started in Mecca, and it was very similar to what was spoken in the holy Qur'an. Â But there were many other religions in other areas of the world. Â These religions included the prophet Abraham, Moses, David, Jesus, etc. Â Islam was the only religion that was taken from the prophet to other parts of the world. Â In the year of Hijri 26, the prophet Muhammad said he was ordered by the Lord to take the message to the different parts of the world. Â As a result of that,
