I have a model for docs and a model for categories that has a n:1 relationship like this: class

Doc(models.Model): title = models.CharField() class
 Category(models.Model): id =
 models.AutoField(primary_key=True) name = models.CharField() doc = models.ForeignKey('Doc')

I want to make a reverse 1:n relationship where a doc has many categories, like this: class
 Doc(models.Model): title = models.CharField() class
 Category(models.Model): id =
 models.AutoField(primary_key=True) name = models.CharField() docs = models.ManyToManyField(Doc) I'd like to be able to look up a category and all the docs it belongs to,
 like this: category =
 Category.objects.filter(name='recipes') docs = category.docs.all() But I don't think this is possible.
 Is there some way to do this? A: I think this might be what you want. class Category(models.Model):
 doc = models.ForeignKey('Doc') name = models.CharField() class Doc(models.Model): title = models.CharField() 6d1f23a050
