Michigan State officials have removed two posters and at least one banner in facilities on the South Campus that proclaims, "Wishing Well for MSU Football." The MSU Police Department emailed a letter to students today saying the "Wishing Well" posters and banners were taken down on the South Campus according to NCAA rules. "On Tuesday, March 6th, the MSU Police Department was contacted by the Department of Justice and requested that the university remove the Wishing Well for MSU Football poster and banners as per NCAA rule," MSUPD wrote in the email. A poster with a similar design and message was placed on East Lansing's public streets, which prompted the removal. The poster was removed later that day. MSUPD said the posters and banners were taken down for review and investigation. The banners "were planned and approved by the administrators of the Wishing Well project," MSUPD wrote. The group has posted the letter on Facebook with a photo of the posters and banners outside of the Department of Public Safety along with a discussion about the concept 6d1f23a050
